DryFire USA Clay Target Training System Goes Scholastic

Duncanville, TX, May 29, 2007 – DryFire USA importer of the DryFire Clay Target Training System is proud to announce the launch of a national program offering all scholastic clay sport athletes the opportunity to obtain a DryFire Clay Target Training System through a special discount program. Instructions and information are posted at www.dryfireus.com and www.centershotsports.com.

Bob Ridge, President of DryFire USA realized the need to provide scholastic teams with the necessary equipment that will provide these young athletes with economical training for a winning edge. Ridge said, “DryFire USA is proud to support all of the young men and women in the clay target shooting community. Shooting programs throughout the nation help to develop core character, leadership and safety awareness, which DryFire USA strongly supports.”

DryFire agreed to offer this program to help all young athletes reach their goals through modern training techniques. The coordinator of this program was Marvin Spinks of Center Shot Sports. Spinks said, “In coaching clay target athletes time and resources are precious commodities. The DryFire system allows the athlete to train with their own shotgun in the comfort of their home on both American and International skeet, trap and sporting clays for penny’s a shot. DryFire is the perfect training tool to allow every athlete the opportunity to accelerate performance by building stamina; sharpening motor skills and improving mental imagery. I personally know one athlete that placed in their state sporting clays championships after training exclusively on the DryFire system for thirty days prior to the competition.”

DryFire will enable athletes to shoot as many targets a year as they want. Whether they shoot 50 or 50,000+ targets, the only cost is electricity. If athletes train 30 minutes a day, 5 days a week, they will shoot 50,000 targets in a year. Something very few athletes are ever able to do. Because DryFire can be conveniently located in your garage, spare bedroom, or in the basement, you will easily be able to spend the time necessary to shoot 50,000 targets. Athletes shooting at their local gun club or in competition will reap the benefits of the “gun control” and the “mental imagery” they have developed while training on Dryfire.

DryFire USA’s mission is to give every athlete the opportunity to reach his or her goals through economical training.
